

Subject line: Research study opportunity: NYU Managing Epilepsy Well (MEW) Study: A Randomized Controlled Trial of Telephone-Based Support for People with Epilepsy

We are contacting you because you may have epilepsy, and you may be eligible for a research study.

Managing epilepsy can be challenging, and many people with epilepsy could benefit from receiving support. The purpose of this research study is to test two telephone-based programs for adults with epilepsy to see whether they improve mood, quality of life and seizures. We plan to enroll 120 people with epilepsy in this study. All study visits are done by phone or online. You will be compensated for your time if you are eligible and choose to participate.

If you are interested in learning more about this study, you can contact us at MEW@nyulangone.org or (917) 887-1277.